upright, is a "restoration" made by scientists, who used the teeth as a basis from which to construct the jaws. The teeth-200 of themwere found in a perfect state of preservation in a phosphate bed in South Carolina. Their size enabled students to tell accurately the size of the jawbones that held them, and in the same way they decided that the shark that once used them was at least eighty feet long. The teeth were sent to the Museum of Natural History in New York, and there they were set in plaster jaws in the order they originally occupied in the jaws of a shark that could truthfully be called a man eater. This huge fish lived during the eocene epoch, at a time that the Atlantic coast was slowly rising from the ocean and the American continent was assuming its present form. Contemporaneous with this huge shark are found bones of the "eohippus," the earliest known

Antoine Emmanuel Ernest Monis, premier and minister of the interior. Antoine Monis, son of the premier. Henri Deutsch de la Mourthe, the aged patron of serousutics.

Paris, May 22 .- As the result of an accident during the start of the Paris change and ought to change with to Madrid aviation race at the drill ter of War Henri M. Berteaux is dead thought to be dying.

In the cold of the morning 50,000 French, with the holiday spirit and in holiday attire, awaited the start. Pierce, 55, was instantly killed by Conneau, flying under the pseudonym of Andre Beaumont, because he is on leave of absence. He was followed by Roland G. Garros, who has just returned from flying in the United States, who in turn was followed by Gibert. All were using Bleriot machines.

who got away when, in the clearing morning light Train, the new aviator, was seen to be approaching the drill

As Train arose the premier, the to have arrived today. minister of war and the other notables, not being able to see from the stand of honor, moved neserr to the starting line. The crowd followed. The crush was tremendous and it was necessary to call for another squadron of cuirassiers to ride upon the field and keep back the throng.

Dashes Headlong Into Crowd.

Train was shutting off his motor and preparing to alight directly over the horsemen as they rode upon the field. In order to avoid striking the cuirassiers Train shot into the air again. He was unable to see the group of notables just on the other side of the cavalry. Having cleared the cuirassiers Train started toward the earth again and dashed headlong into the crowd beyond.

Minister of War Berteaux was dead ahead of the machine. The propeller caught his right arm, which he had raised to fend off the blow, and in a second had torn the member from the body. M. Berteaux was killed instantly.

Premier Monis was buried beneata the machine and was unconscious when lifted from the ground. Both bones of his right leg and all of the bones of his nose were broken, his scalp was frightfully torn, and upon examination it was found that he was suffering from internal injuries in the abdominal region. He was carried at once to his home.

M. Monis is 65 years old and his recovery, though possible, is considered doubtful. Official Paris is enveloped in gloom.
